

Please VOTE NO, and
Remember the Facts!

- It can take months, or longer, to negotiate a contract.
- There are no guarantees about what might be in the contract. You could get less, more, or the same ass you have today.
- You will be subject to union dues if the Union gets in, even if you don't like what is in the contract.
- If the Union gets in, management will be prohibited from “direct dealing” with employees, and will be required to bargain with the Union only.
